"THE POEM OF FIVE GEMMED GARLAND."

Indicative of the joy caused by the Installation of the Sovereignty of the Indian Empire of Their Imperial Majesties George the V and Queen Mary on the 12th December 1911 at Dehli.

I. His Imperial Majesty George the V, the King of Great Britan, &c., who is the foremost gem amongst the sons of His (departed) Majesty King Edward the VII, and who like the moon gladdens the "Cha*takas*" (Moon-birds) of Her Imperial Majesty the Queen Mary's eyes, has now with great delight arrived at Dehli to wear with His Better-half, the crest-gem of the Emperorship of India.

II. His Imperial Majesty's strength lies in truth, in His (inborn) love, but His gay bannered military force He keeps only to honor the royal custom. His subjects are in truth, His children, but He considers His own begotton off-spring as merely the extenders of His dynasty. *D*harmah (Righteousness) is His only policy, but not political wisdom, that base science of falseness. He spends His wealth to nothing but to protect His subjects. Although the virtues of His Imperial Majesty George the V are so miraculous, still He does not give Himself up to pride or vanity.

III. Considering His vassal-kings, ministers, servants, mercantile communities, townsmen, peasants, artists and industrial men, warriors and generals, reverends and highly educated professors, to be like unto the (standing) pillars that bear the burden of His kingdom, His Imperial Majesty not only protects them always with love and also honors them with His manifold gifts.

IV. It is really a wonder that, His Imperial Majesty the King George sustains (the responsible burden) of His ever increasing empire only for the benefit of His subjects, but not to gratify His own pleasures. Being Himself compassionate to one and all, finds no difference between His own kinsmen and the rest of His subjects. All His many-sided thoughts are directed only towards maintaining His subjects, but never towards the (blemish) path of sensuality. Thus His Imperial Majesty although a King shines in truth, like a Yogi.

V. May His Imperial Majesty take his glorious conquering tour (throughout the world); May His military force be in truth, the set of His six virtues; May His (impenetrable) armour be His forbearance; May His ministers be His four kinds of expedients; May His (comforting) Wife be His patience; May His magnificient chariot be His (well-meant) heart's desires; May His dazzling brilliancy be His spotless fame; May He follow (as His royal road), the path of Righteousness paved and well trodden by (the poius monarchs of ancient India such as) Bhoja, *A*soka and Vikram*aditya* and others; And thus may He subdue with earnestness His enemies of anger and other weaknesses.

May His Imperial Majesty George the V, surrounded by His friendly Kings such as His Highness the Maharaja Sri Krishnaraja Wadayar Bahadur, the Great Sovereign of Mysore and others, rule His empire for many years (with health, wealth and prosperity) by the grace of Divinity.
